TO TRY BLAST TO EXTINGUISH OIL WELL FIRE

Texas Gusher Continues To Defy Efforts To Control Blaze

Gladewater, Tex., April 30—(UP)—A great pillar of fire roared toward the sky today from the No. 1 Cole oil well, marking the vicinity where eight men had been burned to death and beating back asbestos-clad firemen who braved the intense heat in an effort to snuff out the flames with an explosion.

Veteran oil field workers held little hope of extinguishing the 200-foot pillar of flames within two days. It fed on oil spouting up at the rate of 18,000 barrels daily, supplemented by strong gas pressure, from the Sinclair Company well.

Under the supervision of M. M. and Harry Kinley, famous oil field firemen, the crews swathed in asbestos suits started clearing away the molten metal and other debris at the mouth of the gusher.

Nitroglycerin will be set off in the red hot maw. If the effort is successful, the blast will drive the gas and oil down into the well, severing it from the fiery spiral. The fire hazard removed, there still will remain the task of bringing the wild gusher under control.

Eighth Victim Dead

John L. Keys, 34, crew worker of Oklahoma City, was the last victim to succumb. He died late last night. A ninth victim, Frank Felock, Woodville, O., was in a critical condition today.

The other dead, identified with difficulty many hours after the fire started presumably from tool friction were: George Albright, Carnegie, Pa.; Roy Blankenship, Seminole, Okla.; Virgil Woltz, Hunter, Okla.; W. H. McCaslin, Winona, Okla.; W. H. McCaslin, Jr., his son, also of Winona; Robert Murdock, Orlando, Okla.; William Harroun, Canadian, Okla. Bodies of the last two had not been removed from the derrick pit.

Heavy rain fell yesterday over the east Texas oil field, of which the Cole well was an extension. It had no effect upon the flaming well, and only added the handicap of mud to the workmen's efforts.

Guard was maintained about the scene and only persons who had business there were admitted in the lines. Thousands of sightseers who crowded the muddy roads were turned away.

Intense heat kept all unprotected by asbestos suits at a distance of several hundred feet.

Heavy smoke billowed over the countryside, blanketing Gladewater, four miles away with a coating of soot.

W. Tom Cole, on whose land the well is located, scoffed at rumors that the fire originated from sabotage of Communists in the oil field. Steel grating on steel as the crew prepared to cap the well was responsible, he said. State rangers had warned all oil companies against a "Communist plot" to destroy refineries and pipelines.

"The drill stem collar raised," Cole said. "I heard the clink of metal and saw a spark with an instantaneous blue flame."

Want Anti-Freeze Solutions Labelled

Washington, Apr. 30—(AP)—A warning against the dangers of anti-freeze solutions mistakenly used for beverages purposes was contained today in a report of the U. S. Food and Drug Administration.

The report recommended that Surgeon Cummings, urge upon makers of anti-freeze solutions the necessity of labelling and coloring to guard against deaths by drinking.

Possible means of making the solutions undrinkable were advanced and the recommendation cited "the ease with which methanol, now distributed rather loosely for anti-freeze purposes, may mistakenly be utilized for beverage purposes and cause loss of vision and loss of life."

Trio Of Gunmen Escaped Police

Willoughby, Ohio, April 30—(UP)—Three suspected New York or Chicago gangsters escaped from police here today after they were arrested for speeding through the city. The trio fled toward Cleveland in a stolen auto, abandoning their own car, a large sedan. Police found six revolvers, 500 rounds of ammunition and New York and Illinois license plates in the sedan. The license plates on the car were stolen in Buffalo, yesterday, police said.

Detectives said the three may have been implicated in the shooting of Jack "Legs" Diamond, New York hoodlum Sunday night and were en route to their hideout in Chicago.

Two Gunmen Put On Spot In Quiet Virginia Village

Washington, Apr. 30—(UP)—Two gunmen were put on the spot in Cherrydale, Va., yesterday after terrorizing the suburban community for more than an hour.

The pair Willie (Torpedo) Miller and Robert (Bad Bob) Testerman, set out to beat the alleged records of Alphonse (Scarface) Al Capone and Jack (Legs) Diamond, or someone or other. The spot on which they were put was the traditional crucifixion across a parental knee.

Willie is six and Robert nine. They deftly removed a revolver from the automobile of a store clerk, together with a supply of bullets, and shot up the town.

Swagging down the main street, they encountered a bunch of molls of their own age. A flourish of gas and these fled in terror.

Next victim was Mrs. B. J. Jones, mother of five. Told they meant business, she screamed. Likewise Mrs. Margaret Kern, so far no casualties. Business was bad.

There seemed but one way to stir up the old town. They took part way. A volley of 22 calibre bullets whizzed up the street. A county policeman whizzed down the street.

"I've got the drop on you," he said, and so he had.

After all even a hard guy knows when to go along without a fuss. To the courthouse Torpedo and Bad Bob expressed a desire for supper. They were released in custody of their parents armed with hairbrushes.

European Police To Curb May Day

London, Apr. 30—(AP)—Police of much of the world today made preparations to suppress disorders during widespread observance tomorrow international labor day.

In England May Day celebrations have gone somewhat out of fashion and little beyond soap box oratory and a few small processions were expected in London, but elsewhere in Europe and in Spanish America observance presented a more serious problem.

The government has forbidden open air meetings and parades in Paris and vigorous preparations have been made to combat any breach in order.

Police of Berlin will be mobilized for the day and a rigid curb placed upon demonstrations.

In some of the Balkan countries celebrations were forbidden, but in others demonstrations under strict supervision were permitted. In Spain the day was expected to have a dual significance with celebrations smacking of patriotic fervor for the new republic. This was especially the case in Catalonia where the "communist" government declared a holiday.

Observance of May Day was abolished several years ago in Italy in favor of the labor festival April 21 and complete quiet is expected there.

YOUNG LION, USED IN LECTURE, BITES AND CLAWS CHILD

Cincinnati School In Pandemonium When It Breaks Loose

Cincinnati, April 30—(UP)—Breaking its leash during a lecture and exhibition at the Whittier school here today, a young lion leaped upon Vivian Lechner, 7, and injured her critically before she was rescued.

The lion and other animals had been brought into the school in connection with a natural history lecture by William Harwood of Leland Stanford University.

Vivian came into the room while the lecture was in progress. She withdrew, frightened, when she saw the animals, but a woman trainer reassured her.

"Come in, they won't hurt you," she said.

The child came back into the room and drew near to gaze with childish curiosity at the lion.

Without warning, the enraged animal leaped, snapping its leash. The impact hurled Vivian to the floor and the lion slashed her with its claws.

Pandemonium broke out. While the woman trainer fought to catch the lion, other occupants of the room screamed and fled to the exits.

Someone called police. Patrolman Howard Miller responded. He snatched the child from beneath the snarling beast, then, using the trainer's rope, captured the lion.

Harwood, meantime, was said to have fled.

The girl was removed to Price Hill Emergency hospital where physicians, after a hasty examination, said an emergency operation might be necessary to save her life.

The child wandered into the lecture room by chance. She was from another classroom. Physicians said she was badly bitten and scratched.

O. P. Renfrew, principal of the school, refused an immediate statement.

According to Police Lieutenant Herman Telghead, Renfrew said he received permission from E. D. Roberts, Superintendent of Schools, to bring the animals into the school in connection with Harwood's lecture.

Telghead said Roberts denied any knowledge of the lecture or of the presence of the animals. Officials of the city Department of Health ordered immediate tests to determine whether the lion has rabies.

Physicians said the child's skull was fractured and her scalp badly lacerated. She was clawed from the base of the skull to the chin on the left side of her face. Her left arm was torn and her face and chest were clawed.

She was given an injection of tetanus anti-toxin to counteract rabies. Fifty stitches were required to close the wounds in her scalp after the child had been rescued. They took the animals with them, carrying them in a barred cage, in the rear of the machine.

A city wide search was begun for them.

Officers expressed doubt that Harwood was from Stanford, as represented.

Two Lee Centerites Sent To State Farm

Clarence Buser and Glenn Huff of Lee Center pleaded guilty to larceny when taken before Judge Harry Edwards in the circuit court this morning. Besser's plea was entered by his attorney Edward Jones, while Huff entered a plea of guilty when taken into court a few days ago and did not retain counsel. Both were indicted by the April grand jury for the theft of several head of hogs.

Judge Edwards sentenced the young men to serve one year at the state work farm at Vandalla and pay fines of $1 and the costs of the prosecution. The court also ordered that they make restitution to the farmers from whom they stole the hogs and two other counts in the indictments were withheld pending settlement for stolen hogs.

Leroy Turner, 24-year-old Negro, who was sentenced to the Joliet penitentiary Tuesday afternoon will be delivered there tomorrow by Deputy Ward Miller.

Goodfellow Funds Have Been Used Up

The Goodfellow Club is indebted to the Nelson Sunday School for a donation of $190 and to the Christian church in Dixon for an additional $1, which are very gratefully accepted.

Demands for aid are even more numerous now than in the winter and the extended welfare work has drained the Goodfellow Club of all its resources. Unless many substantial donations are forthcoming it will be impossible to continue the work.

The unsold articles from the Presbyterian church rummage sale were turned over to the Goodfellow Club and were greatly appreciated.

CAN'T COMPETE IN TRACK MEET AT ROCK FALLS

Alleged Drinking By Students At Dance Is Allegation

Oregon, Ill., Apr. 30—(UP)—Because of alleged drinking by several members of its track team, Oregon high school was suspended today from the Rock River Valley Conference and was prohibited from participating in the annual meet at Rock Falls Friday, an official announcement revealed.

"The conference voted to suspend Oregon," the announcement said, "because of the manner in which the Oregon Board of Education controlled the discipline of certain students regarding the liquor problem, which is a mutual problem in all schools. The other members believed unanimously that Oregon's action was not sufficient."

No charges were made against Principal Hovey or Coach Meierdierks of Oregon nor was the matter of eligibility raised.

The drinking is alleged to have occurred at a senior dance. Three athletes were found with gin in their possession. They were suspended for the first track meet of the season, but reinstated in time for the Ottawa relays last week.

Home Of Malone, Ex-Chairman Tax Board, Bombed This Morn

Chicago, April 30—(UP)—A powder bomb today shattered windows and tore away part of the entrance of the Park Ridge mansion of William H. Malone, former Chairman of the State Tax Commission, who has announced he will be a candidate for Governor in 1932.

The bomb, believed hurled from a passing automobile, caused damage estimated at $200. The front door of the 20-room home was wrecked and 15 windows were rocked from their frames.

Mr. and Mrs. Malone; Miss Ethel Malone, the politician's sister; and two servants were asleep in the house. None of them was injured.

Malone said that while he was a State Tax Commissioner he received many threatening letters and that since he announced he would run for Governor he received a letter warning him to "keep your nose out."

Appointed by former Gov. Len Small in 1921 as a member of the Tax Commission, Malone resigned last Jan. 7 when Gov. Emmerson failed in his message to the Assembly to include a single recommendation made to him by the commission.

Malone said many of the threatening letters were received after the tax commission, while he was a member, ordered a reassessment of all Cook county real estate.

He said he had always considered them the work of "cranks," but that he now would demand an investigation.

Abandoned Mill In Litchfield Burns

Litchfield, Ill., April 30—(UP)—The Litchfield Mill & Elevator Company building, one of the oldest landmarks in Montgomery county, was destroyed by fire of unknown origin. The blaze which consumed the structure could be seen for a radius of 15 miles and attracted many central Illinois motorists.

Firemen from Hillsboro and Mt. Olive aided the local department in combating the flames, which for a time threatened the business section. Telephone service and electric power was discontinued for several hours because of the blaze.

Loss to the mill has not been determined. The company has not operated for several years and most of the equipment had been removed from the structure.

Toll Of Egyptian Train Fire Is 41

Cairo, Egypt, Apr. 30—(UP)—A hot box which spread flames through a crowded passenger train coach was blamed today for the catastrophe which killed 41 persons, including children, on the Alexander Express.

The express caught fire just prior to arrival at Benha and the flames quickly spread through a third-class coach, burning many passengers and causing others to leap from the moving train. The engine crew of the train was not aware of the fire and continued toward Benha, thus permitting the wind to carry the flames to two other third class coaches which were destroyed.

Thirty-six were taken to hospitals at Alexandria in serious condition. One of the dead was a Spanish woman, but all other victims were natives.

"THIRD DEGREE" BARRED. Chicago, April 30—(AP)—Describing the "third degree" as a "substitute for police efficiency," Acting Police Commissioner John Alcock put all Chicago policemen under orders today to refrain from using this method in questioning prisoners.

He added that reports had been received by him that some Chicago policemen were using the "third degree" and pointed out that such practices are strictly prohibited by law.

QUICK JUSTICE FOR MICHIGAN BANK ROBBER

Begins Sentence Day After Crime: Two Caught In Ind.

Flint, Mich., April 30—(UP)—Elmer Spencer, 53-year-old unemployed farm hand who held up the State Bank of Otisville with an unloaded gun yesterday was starting a 30 to 40 year prison sentence today.

The gray-haired Army veteran who used an empty shotgun because he "didn't want to take a chance on hurting anybody," was sentenced to Marquette branch prison late yesterday by Judge Edward D. Black.

The severe sentence was imposed less than eight hours after the hold-up, establishing a near-record for Michigan courts.

Indianapolis, Ind., Apr. 30—(UP)—Two men robbed the Oak Landon State Bank of $3,000 today and were captured 10 minutes later by citizens who chased them across a field.

Alexis Riley, unarmed, bluffed one of the robbers into surrendering, and the other was overtaken quickly. The robbers offered no resistance, gave their names as James Cordell, 37, and Charles LeRoy Palmer, Cleveland.

The two men rose from behind a counter when Edgar Mock, assistant cashier, entered the bank. They forced him to open the vault, took the money, then pushed him into the chamber.

As Mock closed the vault door he sounded a burglar alarm. An armed posse was close behind the robbers as they fled, but Riley was the first to catch.

May Cut Passenger Rates On Steamers

Paris, April 30—(AP)—A drastic cut in the cost of trans-Atlantic travel was understood today to have been proposed by British shipping interests at a rate conference meeting at the Hotel Astoria, Paris.

The British proposal was said to amount to a ten percent reduction in first and cabin class ocean fares and establishment of a $100 steerage rate for the round trip between Europe and the United States and vice-versa.

Other shipping interests were understood to be opposed to such a radical slash. A decision was not expected for several days.

ASSEMBLY WORKS ON BILLS CARRYING BIG AMOUNTS

Appropriations Of 150 Millions Provided In Certain Bills

Springfield, Ill., April 30—(UP)—Biennial appropriations for highway construction and certain state departments and totalling close to $15,000,000 occupied the attention of the Illinois state legislature today as each house considered the heaviest calendar that has been presented to it during the present session.

More than a hundred bills were listed on the calendar of each house as members began deliberations in an effort to speed up action on more than a thousand measures that are still pending.

The House passed a bill calling for a biennial appropriation of $107,800,000 for construction, maintenance, widening and patrolling of state highways. The bill now goes to the Senate.

Action on the bill was delayed at first when Representative Michael I. Igoe, Democratic minority leader, Chicago, raised an objection because Representative Homer Tice, Republican, Greenville, the bill's author, was unable to answer Igoe's questions as to certain statistics in the bill. Later however, inquiry at the office of the state Highway Department cleared up the matter and Igoe withdrew his objection to enable the bill to pass.

Give Treasurer Fund. The Senate gave final passage to the biennial appropriation of $32,015,549.70 for the state Treasurer's office and it now goes to Governor L. L. Emmerson for his signature. It also passed and sent to the House a measure, sponsored by Senator Richard Meents, Republican, asking, providing an appropriation to pay for a portrait for former Governor Len Small.

A bill introduced by Representative C. P. Kane, Democrat, Bloomington, and providing for changing the name of the Illinois Soldiers' Orphans' home at Normal to the Illinois Soldiers' & Sailors' Children's Home was passed and sent to the Senate by the House.

Holding of amateur boxing exhibitions in state armories is authorized in a bill sponsored by Representative P. J. Breen, Democrat, of Vermilion Grove, and passed by the House. It has yet to be acted on by the Senate.

The House also passed a bill calling for an appropriation of $570,000 to repair and replace buildings which were damaged in the recent convulsions at Stateville and Joliet prisons.

Other Measures Passed. Other measures passed today were as follows: Senate—Bohrer—Relating to public welfare commissioners. Little—Providing an additional secretary for a supreme court justice elected from the Chicago district.

Huebner—Provides that cities of 50,000 or more may have a working cash fund. At present the law applies only to Chicago.

Wright-Meents-Garison—Allows the State Treasurer to substitute tax anticipation warrants for cash in state funds having a surplus.

House—Tice—Provides a biennial appropriation for heating service at the Executive Mansion and the Supreme Court.

Tice—Biennial appropriation of $1,328,000 for the state Department of Registration and Education.

Peffer—Relating to indebtedness of school districts.

The Senate also advanced about twenty measures to second reading. Both houses planned to adjourn today to next Tuesday when the House expects to begin to hold two sessions daily.

Unknown's Body Is Found In Barn Ruins

Barrington, Ill., April 30—(UP)—Police Chief James Dalley worked today on a theory that a body found in the smoldering ruins of a huge barn and ice house might be that of a gangster who had been killed and thrown there before the building was fired.

Finding of a mass of melted coins near the charred body led to doubts that the man was a tramp and had fired the building accidentally.

Boy Scouts returning from a camping trip discovered that the barn had burned and found the body in the ruins.

The building was located on the estate of Spencer Otis, retired farmer. It was about a mile from the Otis home and had been abandoned.

Pilots Of Transport Save Ten Passengers

Elyria, Ohio, April 30—(AP)—Two pilots lay in a hospital today, badly hurt, and their tri-motored airliner was a wreck, but they had saved their eight passengers from all but minor injuries in making a forced landing five miles north of here.

Pilot Sam Taylor and Allen McDiarmid, who was with him at the controls, were flying a National Air Transport ship from Chicago to Cleveland yesterday when, witnesses and passengers agreed, two of the motors went dead. Taylor coolly made sure that all the passengers had their life belts fixed and then started to bring the plane down.

The left wing caught in the top of a small tree, whirling it around and against telephone wires before it landed in a barnyard. All but one wing and the passenger compartment was destroyed, but the passengers were calm.

Taylor suffered a possible fractured skull and a fractured left ankle. McDiarmid received possible fractures of the ribs and internal injuries.

EXPEDITIONS IN SEARCH OF LONE MAN ON ICE CAP

Fog Prevents Would-Be Rescuer Taking Off Today
Reykjavik, Iceland, Apr. 30—(AP)—The patrolboat Iceland Odin headed north this morning with an airplane lashed on her forward deck and an Icelandic flier aboard, bound for Greenland to look for Augustine Courtauld, the young British explorer.

She is due to reach the ice barrier about sixty miles from Angmagalik on Friday morning if the good weather holds.

Just before she sailed word came from Bergen, Norway, that Captain Albin Ahrenberg, Swedish flier who is also joining in the search, had been advised not to take off from there until the weather improved.

The temperature was around zero and there was danger of ice forming on the wings of his plane.

Too Great an Artist to Practice Deception
London, Apr. 30—(AP)—The British art world was excited today by a controversy raging about the head of Reginald Eves III, English artist of note who, when an obscure painter, was discovered by John Singer Sargent and made his protegee.

Sir William Llewellyn, president of the royal academy, was said in an afternoon paper to have vetoed election of eyes to the academy after discovery that one of the artist's paintings sent to the academy was an enlarged photograph thirty paint-over.

An official of the academy, confirming the discovery said that the artist's name had been withdrawn from consideration and the picture returned. The evening news later quoted the artist, whose name was not disclosed until later, as admitting he had painted over the photograph. He explained it was one of three such pictures he had to complete hurriedly for an exhibition last year. He devised the method while suffering from a cramp in his hand, but declared sending it to the academy was a "mistake" and that he had no idea of working contrary to the academy's rules.

Some noted painters today expressed sympathy with Eves, accepting his explanation and stating that his action was at worst foolish. They pointed out that he was too great an artist to practise or need to practise deception.

SPARROWS
LIKE wind-swept leaves of Autumn, flying here
And there, and everywhere, in hungry quest
Brown coated sparrows with soft downy breast
Pursue their busy way. Some bit of cheer

They seek of man himself, and all the year
They share his lot. In their warm feathered nest
First of all their green-blue eggs attest
That Winter's past and gay Springtime is near.

Then why discount their feathered impudence?
They are a part of God's almighty scheme,
Has man in boasted wisdom more to give?
With all their noisy lazy impudence,
Each fragile life obeys a Will Supreme—
Keep faith, rejoice, obey the law, and live!

Something Nice for Next Sunday's Dinner

Roast Lamb With Mint Jelly.
After roasting the lamb surround it with small individual servings of mint jelly. Garnish the dish and the top of the roast with water-cress or parsley.

Mint Jelly
Combine 1-2 cup apple vinegar and 1 cup water, add enough green coloring to give desired tint. Add 4½ cups (1 lb. 7 oz.) sugar, stir, bring to boil. At once add 1-2 cup bottled pectin, stirring constantly, and bring again to a full rolling boil and boil 1-2 minute. Remove from fire and add 1-2 to 1 1-2 teaspoons spearmint extract, according to flavor desired. Let stand 1 minute, skim, and pour quickly. Cover hot jelly with film of hot paraffin; when jelly is cold, cover with 1-8 inch of hot paraffin. Roll glass to spread paraffin on sides. If lemon juice is used instead of vinegar, use 1-2 cups water and strained juice of 2 lemons. Makes 4 to 5 eight-ounce glasses.

White and Colored Gold Star Mothers To Go to France

Springfield, Ill., Apr. 30—(AP)—President Hoover and the United States Congress were memorialized by the Illinois House of Representatives Wednesday to transport colored and white Gold Star Mothers to France on battleships without discrimination as to race or color.

Charges that 150 colored Gold Star Mothers and widows from this state had been taken to the battlefields of France in freighters rather than on passenger boats were made before the House by Rep. William King, Negro, of Chicago, author of the resolution.

King said that there are 650 more colored women in Illinois eligible to make the pilgrimage to France and that he wants them to "go in all honor the white women who gave their sons and husbands."

Economy Plus Practicality Equals Style In Springtime Footwear, Paris Decrees

(Associated Press Fashion Editor)

BY DIANA MURWIN

Paris—(AP)—Economic elegance is the fashion footnote this spring.

The shoes which smart femininity wears with its vernal togs will be pretty to look at, but the essence of practicality for wear.

Colored shoes will be worn in great numbers, but blacks, browns and the ever-popular reptiles will be the standby of the woman who wants to be quietly chic.

Navy blue shoes will be worn with blue costumes, dark green with green and dark red with oxblood or beige ensembles having dark red accessories.

But smart women will have nothing to do with colored shoes which do not harmonize closely with their outfits.

Black or brown ensembles will be completed by black, brown or reptile shoes in one color. Two-color shoes, except for dark leathers having a fine colored piping, are now eschewed by many smart women.

Sturdy leathers and simple designs are the rule. There is a new sea kid with a sandpaper-like finish, expensive but almost as durable as time, which will be used for both walking shoes and evening slippers. By day it is dull, by night it gleams and it can be scuffed, neither by the driving pedals of cars nor the mishaps of a fox trot.

Less expensive shoes will favor reptiles, calf and antelope. Pumps with a buckle or leather bow, oxford ties and a few strap slippers are the favorite designs.

Afternoon shoes favor dull ribbed silk such as faulle, while evening slippers are the gayest spot in the shoe array. They are made of bright-colored crepe de chine (matching gown or accessories) combined with silver or gold kid.

MEN AND MACHINES.

During the next decade the United States is probably going to realize that its greatest problem is making its humanitarian accomplishments jibe with its technical and mechanical advances. Progress so far has tended to be one-sided. Human values, having gone unnoticed, have suffered.

In a recent issue of The New Republic, Edmund Wilson discusses a great automobile factory from these two aspects. He begins by describing the factory purely as a mechanical thing, a device for turning raw ore into finished machines that roll away under their own power. His prose grows almost lyric as he tells of the marvelously-planned machinery, the perfectly-devised system for doing a dozen things at once, the almost incredibly skillful engines by which modern America does its work.

That part of his article is nothing less than a rhapsody. Admiration is evident in every line.

Then, abruptly, he switches to the human side. He records conversations that he has had with workers. He gives glimpses into their homes, shows stretches of their lives, tells how the whole business affects them. And this part of his story is in startling contrast to the first part.

Where everything in the first part bespeaks admiration, the second part is pitched in a different key. Workers complain of uncertainty; at any time a man is apt to find himself out of a job. The work is hard and exhausting. And always there is the cry for speed, speed, so that a worker goes home at night fagged out, unable to do anything with his leisure. There is no security, there is no contentment. A man is always under a strain.

Now it is possible, of course, that the workers Mr. Wilson talked with were unusual specimens. Manufacturers of automobiles will undoubtedly protest that working conditions in their plants are constantly being improved, are better than the average, are as humane as is possible under the circumstances. But that is not the point.

The point is that a man of liberal outlook, visiting a huge American factory, has unreserved admiration for the purely mechanical side of things but has grave doubts where the human side is involved. Our machines, in other words, are nearly perfect; conditions for the men who serve the machines, on the other hand, are very far from perfection.

The development in these parallel fields has not been even. We are suffering badly from this unevenness today. During the next few years we shall discover that this is a problem of major importance.

PRESIDENTIAL TREES.

A tree planted by President Hoover has now taken its place on the White House grounds along with trees planted by other presidents. Mr. Hoover, who planted an elm the other day, has received a certificate of membership in the tree-planting army enrolled by the American Tree Association—and, incidentally, has set an excellent example for his fellow-citizens.

Many presidents have planted trees on the White House grounds. Not far from Mr. Hoover's tree is one planted by President Roosevelt. A little distance away is one set out by President Wilson. Within view is one planted by President McKinley. Farther away is one planted by President Hayes.

There is something appealing about this presidential tree-planting. A tree is a living memorial; more intimate, somehow, than a granite shaft or a bronze tablet. We hope the custom is continued.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The jolting cart seemed very strange. Said Scouty, "We can all arrange to sit so we can see the sights. I am sure it will be real sport. Now, hurry please and all get set. The horse is getting anxious. Can't you Tines hear him snort?"

And so they squatted on the floor and soon the bunch heard Glowry roar, "Giddap! Giddap! We're on our way!" The horse pricked up his ears and started slowly down the street. Each Tiny had a randsstand seat. The natives were attracted by the happy Tines' cheers.

A canvas shade spread overhead. "That keeps the sun off," Coppi said. "And here's a big umbrella I will open it up wide." He pushed a snapper. Up it flew! It proved a real smart thing to do because the big umbrella kept the sun off at the side.

For about an hour they rode the way and then they heard the driver say, "This ends the jolting journey. Little lads. Now all climb out. You are a friendly little bunch, but I must hurry home to lunch." The Tinymites all thanked him and then jumped out with a shout.

"Oh, look," Cried Carpy. "We will meet that man who is coming down that street. And I know what his business it. I have read of him in books. He is a walking grocery man. On poles he carries all he can and sells his wares from house to house. How queer the fellow looks!"

Then, as the man went walking by, the Tines had a chance to eye the things that he was carrying. He surely had a load. A pole across his shoulder swung and on it was two baskets hung. The man smiled at the Tines and kept walking on the road.

Today is the ANNIVERSARY

"AMERICA DAY"

On April 30, 1917, the city of Liverpool celebrated "America Day" in recognition of the entry of the United States into the war.

A special town meeting of citizens was held at noon. It was preceded by a service of thanksgiving at St. Nicholas Church, attended by the lord mayor, city officials, the United States consul, consular representatives of all the allied powers, and leading citizens. The sermon was preached by the bishop of Liverpool.

This day also marked the thousandth day of the European war. Two days later Herr Joseph Nann, a former conservative member of the German Reichstag, was reported to have made in a lecture the following statement:

"Until now the war has caused us 1,300,000 dead. This, together with the decrease in birth, gives a reduction of 3,800,000. The surplus of females has increased from 800,000 to more than 2,000,000. The nation has bled as never since the Thirty Years' War."

The TOP of every FRIGIDAIRE is a porcelain-topped table

Food on its way into a Frigidaire and food on its way out need not be juggled, or tip-tilted, or inconveniently parked on the distant kitchen table... the flat expanse of showy porcelain atop the Frigidaire makes such a perfect serving shelf!

It is an ideal place to put piping-hot things that should be cooled off before they are exposed to low temperatures... a splendid permanent place to keep the few foods that need not be refrigerated.

And nothing—hot or cold, smooth or scratchy—can in any way scar or mar the lifelong lustre of its diamond-hard Porcelain-on-steel finish.

A conveniently flat, unencumbered serving table top is one of the very real advantages of Frigidaire Advanced Refrigeration. There are many others. We invite you to come in and learn all about them.

mechanism of the eye, producing not only the abnormal eye movements known as nystagmus due to fatigue and defects of vision.

Doctor McCord examined 121 train dispatchers in widely separated sections of the country and from 17 different railroads. He found some nystagmus in 81 or 67 per cent.

There is a form of nystagmus which is related to disturbances of the internal ear, but that which appears in train dispatchers is not of this character. It is important to realize that the visual disturbance is wholly associated with the occupation.

The train dispatcher ordinarily begins this work between the ages of 30 and 35, although at present there is a tendency for younger men to go into the work. The condition tends to progress to some extent the longer the man remains at the occupation, but does not tend to go to the point of total disability as in the case of nystagmus among miners.

Another, interesting observation made on the train dispatchers was the fact that many of them have some degree of hardness of hearing. This is related to the fact that the train dispatchers wear close-fitting hearing apparatus over the left ear through which there is a continuous inputting of sound waves, and also due to the fact that the work is carried on amidst noise and din producing extra dependence on bone conduction of sound rather than air conduction.

ADVANCEMENT KNOWLEDGE

There is hardly a phase of our whole system of medical protection that has not been built up on animal experimentation. Scientists agree that without this aid, medical and surgical knowledge would be centuries behind present attainment. The blessings of anesthesia would be unavailable to mankind. The benefits of asepsis would be unknown. The technique of the physician and surgeon would be crude and blundering. Instead of skilled and certain as it is today.

Consider the surgical operation. It seems a relatively simple thing now. We may not enjoy it, but we no longer have great fear because we know that the mortality rate is relatively low, under one per cent. For instance, in appendicitis. Few of us realize that every step in such surgical process has been built up on careful bacteriological work, which, in turn, has involved constant animal experimentation.

There are few mothers today who do not want to have their children protected against diphtheria and smallpox. Yet practically every stage in the development of protection against diphtheria and smallpox, as well as every stage in the development of the serum cures for disease, has been built up on the basis of animal experimentation.

Most people still believe that one human life is worth any number of animal lives. The higher our civilization, the greater becomes the disproportion in values between human life and animal life. In countries where animal life is sacred, human life is cheap. People die like flies from almost every known infectious disease. There is more cruelty inflicted on animals in one day in some of those places than in all the days in all the years since American laboratories have been established.

One of the first transfusions on a human being was performed with sheep's blood in London in 1667.

PRESIDENT OF VA. UNIVERSITY DIES ON WAY TO URBANA

Dr. Edwin A. Alderman
Stricken On Train
Last Evening

Charlottesville, Va., Apr. 30.—(AP)—Dr. Edwin A. Alderman, president of the University of Virginia for 27 years, died last night on his way to Urbana, Ill., where he was to have taken part in the induction of Dr. Harry W. Chase into the presidency of the University of Illinois.

A few hours after the train left Washington, he was stricken by apoplexy and at Connellsville, Penna., was removed to the State hospital. He died there a short time later. He was 69 years old. The funeral will be at Charlottesville Saturday with burial in the University cemetery.

He is survived by his widow, formerly Bessie Green Hearn of New Orleans and a son, Edwin A. Alderman, Jr., of New York.

Dr. Edwin Anderson Alderman, president of the University of Virginia, was a life-long friend of Woodrow Wilson and achieved national prominence when selected by Congress as the speaker for his joint session in honor of the war president on December 15, 1924. At that time he delivered what has been characterized as one of the most memorable eulogies ever made before Congress. He defended his friend against the critics of the day, particularly in regard to President Wilson's hand in the Versailles treaty.

"He had the heart to match the moral hopes of mankind against their passions," said Dr. Alderman. "He sought to give the twentieth century a faith to inspire it and to justify the sacrifice of millions of lives, and if there was failure it was humanity's failure. To make him, the one undaunted advocate of those hopes, the scapegoat of a world collapse, is to visit upon him injustice so cruel that it must perish of its own unreason."

In educational circles Dr. Alderman was known as the evangel of a new educational era in the south. A staunch advocate of universal education, he began his work in North Carolina, where he was born May 13, 1861, the son of James and Susan J. Alderman. From 1889-92, with the late Charles Duncan Melver, he went up and down the state preaching the gospel of universal education and endeavoring to convince the people that it was right to be taxed to support schools for another's education. Much of his labor later became incorporated in the program of the General Education Board of which he was a member.

"That the university owed a service to the state in every line of endeavor was a belief held by Dr. Alderman. He expressed that view in an address upon assuming the presidency of the University of Virginia when he said: 'If there be a question touching life on the farm or in the factory, in institutional development, in the public schools, in manufacturing or municipal problems, some intelligent answer should issue from the university.'"

Shortly after he was graduated from the University of North Carolina, Dr. Alderman entered upon educational work as superintendent of schools at Goldboro. He continued in that position for several years, then went with the North Carolina State Normal College remaining with the latter institution until he was elected in 1900 as president of Tulane University of New Orleans. Four years later he was chosen president of University of Virginia.

The friendship between Dr. Alderman and Woodrow Wilson began when their families were neighbors in Wilmington and developed into the close intimacy that marked their relations while Wilson was president of Princeton University. After the death of Wilson, Dr. Alderman continued at every opportunity to speak unstinted praise of the war president.

In recognition of his educational work a number of universities conferred honorary degrees upon Dr. Alderman and he was further honored by membership in many nationally prominent organizations, including the General Educational Board, the Woodrow Wilson Memorial Foundation, Academy of Social Science, Phi Beta Kappa, American Academy of Arts and Letters and the Board of Governors of the Thomas Jefferson Memorial Foundation. He also was a trustee of the Institute of Economics and an elector of the Hall of Fame.

In 1886 Dr. Alderman married Miss Emma Graves of Hillsboro, N. C. She died ten years later and on February 11, 1904, he married Bessie Green Hearn of New Orleans.

PAW PAW NEWS

Paw Paw—Quite a number of peach trees are in bloom in and around Paw Paw, although there was a slight covering of frost Sunday morning.

Mrs. Mary J. Hall of Chicago but formerly of Paw Paw, writes friends she is well and although 93 years old recalled the days of "Way Back When—" She was born on the banks of the Fox river two miles from Oswego in a log cabin built by the father of Mrs. Helen Avery, of Paw Paw. The land was purchased at $125 an acre in 1833, she came to Paw Paw at that time. The town then consisted of more log houses than frame houses.

Ben Roberts is putting in 1900 feet of 10 inch tile in his field north of the school house. Arley Hunter, L. E. Harvill and Arthur Hampton are doing the work.

The Picnic Committee of the Elevator Company have chosen July 4th as the date for their annual picnic this year.

Mrs. A. L. Coakes left for Davenport Saturday for a two weeks visit with her sister.

Miss Ion Cosa is special nurse for Mrs. Fred Gilmore who is suffering with Erisipilis.

A hard road for Paw Paw within the present year seems to be well within the range of possibilities. This cheering prospect is brought by the changes of opinion of many members of the county board in regard to the use of the gas tax money.

Originally the board voted to improve the old Chicago road west from Highway No. 70, through to Amboy and from there put in a good gravel road west to Walton and Harmon and Route 89. After much reflection a number of the supervisors decided that a series of concrete spurs to connect up existing highways with various hard road connections would be a more efficient plan.

That was voted by the board at the March meeting, however, one more the board reversed its action and returned to the idea of graveling the old Chicago road.

It was soon apparent, however, that the graveling idea was not so popular throughout the country generally as the spur plan. As a result the new board at the organization meeting this week again voted to build spurs.

These spurs will consist of a 10-foot slab of concrete flanked on one side by an 8-foot strip of gravel. These spurs will eventually lead to Paw Paw, Steward, Lee Center, Harmon, Eldena and Lowell Park.

Supervisor, H. A. Knetsch conferred with about 20 business and professional men of Paw Paw and near by farmers at an informal meeting at the State Bank last Saturday evening.

He was desirous of ascertaining the sentiment as to the best direction to build the spur from Paw Paw, whether west to Route 70 or north to Route 71. Inasmuch as it seems to be a reasonable certainty that No. 71 will be built this summer, the overwhelming sentiment of those present was to build north from Paw Paw to Route 71. It is expected that the spurs to Steward and Paw Paw will be constructed in early summer.

Claude Berry, son of the late W. S. Berry and wife, passed away at his home in Wheaton about 8 o'clock Tuesday forenoon, April 21. He had been ill for a long time, although a partial recovery some time ago led to the hope that he might ultimately get well. But his ailment, Bright's Disease, proved too strong and he passed into the great beyond.

Mr. Berry was well known here where he spent the early years of his life. He was among the early graduates of the Paw Paw High School.

His work as an engineer and contractor took him into many parts of the United States.

He was a man of fine personality, with a host of friends. He was in his 58th year. He leaves to mourn his passing, his wife, who is partially crippled, due to a stroke, one sister, Mable in Los Angeles, one brother Glenn of Paw Paw and a sister, Irene of Paw Paw. His brother and sister from here were in attendance at his funeral Thursday afternoon, from his late residence in Wheaton.

Dr. Lawrence Condit, educator of Sitka, Alaska, will give an address in the Presbyterian church in this place at 2:30 Thursday afternoon, April 30. Dr. Condit is Superintendent of the Sheldon Jackson school, in Sitka.

He has been in Alaska many years and has an interesting story to tell of that land. The public is invited. No admission charge.

The band tax met with a rather cold reception at the hands of the Paw Paw voters, or that portion of them who voted, Tuesday. The proposition was voted down, 58 to 21. The 79 votes cast was not a large percentage of the registered voters.

For village officials the regular candidates, Dr. S. R. Dickie, for president and R. S. Tarr, Jake Martin and Alfred Burnett for trustees were elected practically without opposition, one vote was cast for C. C. Faber for president and one each for S. A. Wright and O. S. Cornell for trustees.

Avery Merriman, Junior Knetsch, and Ruth Poltsch are new victims of the mumps.

Little Miss Carol Cass is on the sick list.

Dr. R. E. Hieronymus, University of Illinois Community Adviser will

Baseball Gossip

By GAYLE TALBOT, JR.
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Possibly the Cleveland sluggers had taken to chiding members of their hurling staff. Something like:

"Yeah, if it wasn't for us hitters, where would we be? We wouldn't be riding out in front of the American League if we had waited for you guys to get along."

Anyway, young Wes Ferrell took it upon himself yesterday to uphold the honor and dignity of the Tribe's curving corps. Any future insinuation that the club's batting order is carrying all the load will fall pretty flat.

Wes went the limit to prove his point. He pitched the first no-hit, no-run game seen in the major leagues in nearly two years to lick the St. Louis Browns, 9 to 0. The star right hander, starting his third campaign in the big show, allowed only six men to reach first—three on walks and three on errors by Bill Hume-field—and not one of them got as far as second base. He struck out eight and, incidentally, won his fourth victory of the young season.

Ferrell further repudiated the swat-smiths by driving in four runs with a home-run and double. Earl Ayler also cracked one into the center stands to help hand the Browns their sixth straight reverse and send them into a tie with the Red Sox at the bottom.

The last previous no-run, no-hit game was pitched by the Giants' southpaw, Carl Hubbell, who victimized the Pittsburgh Pirates on May 8, 1929.

The victory kept the Indians a game and a half in front of the Washington Senators, who took undisputed possession of second place by thumping the crippled Yankees again, 9 to 5. The New Yorkers have dropped four of their last five, with only a 14-inning tie to break the monotony. They gained an early four-run lead off Lloyd Brown yesterday, but four pitchers couldn't hold it.

Chicago's White Sox tied their previous high run for the year by making it two straight over Detroit, 3 to 0. They grouped their five hits off Whitehill, while Thomas kept seven Tiger blows well spaced. Inlement weather stopped the Athletics and Red Sox for the fourth straight day at Boston.

St. Louis and Chicago continued their red-hot argument over the leadership of the National League, and it still is a dead heat. Both won their eighth victory in eleven starts, the Cardinals taking Pittsburgh 7 to 1, and the Cubs downing Cincinnati 3 to 1. There were only two games, rain preventing play at New York and Philadelphia.

Making his second start of the year for the Cards, Jess Haines limited the Pirates to four scattered hits, while his mates got to Kremer and Osborn for 12. Adams and Orsatti each had a double and single. The Cubs nicked Red Lucas for only seven hits, but bunched four of them in the fifth inning to score all their runs. Riggs Stephenson

"CONVINCED THERE IS NO EQUAL OF HERBAL GLY-CAS"

Contractor Freed of Stomach, Kidney, Bowel Troubles After Guaranteed Remedies Flatly Failed in Case.

MR. L. J. KLOKORN

Seemingly undoubtedly to prove the power of Gly-Cas is the statement of Mr. L. J. Klokorn, 1206 East Broadway, Enid, Okla., well known contractor who says, "Gly-Cas convinced me in a short time that it has no equal. I had been constipated for years, stomach out of order, had no appetite, suffered with indigestion, bloating, shortness of breath. Could not rest at night, always tired-out. Many guaranteed remedies failed to give me relief and it was not until I took Gly-Cas that I was benefited in anyway. Now my health troubles are over, all indigestion, stomach and bowel troubles corrected, kidneys back to normal, rest well and am feeling fine in every way. This great Gly-Cas remedy is deserving of all the praise given it and more too."

"AMAZING," that is what many say of Gly-Cas' ability to reach the most severe cases of rheumatism, neuritis, stomach, liver, kidney, bowel troubles. Gly-Cas is sold by Schildberg's Pharmacy, 301 First St., Dixon, and by all leading drug stores in surrounding towns—Adv.

RUTH OPTIMISTIC

New York, Apr. 30—(AP)—Always the optimist, Babe Ruth is quite sure he will be back in uniform and taking his usual cut at the ball by next Sunday. Those who say the final word about it, his doctor and Artie McGovern, who trains the Babe, are not so sure about it yet but it doesn't seem likely that they can keep him idle much longer.

"I ought to be back there Sunday," Babe said as he impatiently nursed his left thigh which was injured in a collision with Charley Berry, Boston Red Sox catcher, last week. "I can stand on one leg and hit 'em," he added.

"It's been coming along fine in the last 48 hours. If it keeps on improving the doc says he'll probably let me go out to the Stadium Sunday."

McGovern added that, except for the injury Ruth is in fine condition and that the enforced rest may do him good.

"The injury is what they call a blood tumor," Artie explained. "Probably a hundred small blood vessels in there burst when the Babe and Berry collided. It will gradually clear up and the Babe ought to be as good as ever."

COBB'S MAKE UP

Augusta, Ga., Apr. 30—(AP)—The marital difficulties of the Tyrus Raymond Cobbs were "straightened out" today.

The former major league baseball star announced that divorce suit filed by his wife, Mrs. Charlie Marion Lombard Cobb, on April 15, had been withdrawn.

"It is Mrs. Cobb's desire," he said, "that I personally make official announcement that the divorce proceedings have been withdrawn; that her attorney has been advised of this fact; that she took this step on her own initiative, and that no further comment is to be made on account of the sacredness relating to her decision."

The Cobbs were married in 1908.

BARBOUR RELEASED

Chicago, Apr. 30—(Lou Barbour, Jr., son of the traveling secretary of the White Sox, has been released outright to the Dubuque club of the Mississippi Valley League. Barbour, a left-handed pitcher, is only 19 years old and was sent out for seasoning.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALLAN GOULD

Whether the Spanish situation has had anything to do with it or not, the home run kings of baseball have run into a flock of early trouble.

The injury to Babe Ruth, coming at a time when the Big Bam was off at an unusually hot pace with his big stick, caps the climax of troubles for the 1930 monarchs of maul.

From the outset, Hack Wilson, who took the major league crown away from Ruth last season, has had trouble adjusting his batting sights to the new ball and the outer barriers.

There has been some talk that the Hack, a sensitive soul, has not taken any too kindly to the Hornsbys brand of leadership, but it is more reasonable to figure the Cub clouter merely caught himself in a slump and began to worry about it.

Joe Hauser, who led them all last year by banging out 63 homers for the Baltimore Orioles of the International league, likewise has been beset by the jinx hovering over the big bats of baseball. Joe strained a ligament before the start of the season and was forced out of the lineup.

Nick Cullop, who hit 54 homers in the American association in 1930 and Mickey Heath, who collected 37 in the Pacific Coast league, so far have failed to strike much fear into National league pitching ranks, although they figure to give the Cincinnati Reds some much needed punch.

Larry Bettencourt, who led the Texas Rangers in homers with 43 last year, has not rounded into good enough shape to hold down a regular post yet with the St. Louis Browns.

Yanks Miss Babe

Only a few days before Ruth was felled for the count in Boston this department's operative turned in a report indicating the Babe was in prime condition and spirits for a big year.

The Bambino's injury is a particularly tough break, striking simultaneously blows at his ambitions of a record home run year, the early cash of the Yankees and the gate receipts.

The Yankees have had some superlative pitching, but the Babe's big stick has been accounting for many of the winning margins. He was hitting at an even 400 clip when he was hurt, and his three home runs represented a better April start than the year he set the major league mark of 60.

When Ruth is out of the lineup, the customers do not turn out with the same enthusiasm, if at all. The Yankees have never made a policy of revealing the figures, but I would figure a drop of anywhere from 25 to 50 per cent in the attendance with the Babe absent. The falling off likely is more noticeable in New York than on the road.

Rabbit Very Spry

On the same day that the 37-year-old Ruth was being lugged from Fenway Park, Rabbit Maranville, who will be 39 this November, personally put on an all around exhibition that enabled the Boston Braves to make the Brooklyn Robins look more foolish than ever. The durability of the Rabbit, in his 20th major league season is in many respects one of the most remarkable features of the game.

STAR CLEVELAND PITCHER ENTERS "HALL OF FAME"

Wes Ferrell Pitches No Run, No Hit Game Against Browns

By DIXON STEWART

United Press Staff Correspondent

New York, Apr. 30—(UP)—Wesley Ferrell of Cleveland held a wide margin over his rivals today in the race for 1931 major league hurling honors.

The big 23-year-old right hander turned in his fourth victory of the year—and the 50th of his three-year major league career—yesterday when he shut out the St. Louis Browns, 9 to 0, and celebrated the occasion by making his triumph a no-hit contest.

Ferrell's masterpiece was the first hitless major league game since May 6, 1929, when Carl Hubbell pitched the New York Giants to a 11 to 0 decision over Pittsburgh and the first no-hit game in the American League since Ted Lyons of the Chicago White Sox shut out Boston, 6 to 0 on August 21, 1926.

Ferrell himself attached little significance to his feat, and told the United Press that the hitless game "felt just the same as winning any other ball game."

Not His Ambition

"I've never had any ambition to pitch a no-hit game," he said. "My idea is just to get in there and beat the opposition."

Cleveland and baseball fans, however, regarded the game as proof of their contention that Ferrell is the best of modern day pitchers. Ferrell disputed this honor last season with Lefty Grove of the Philadelphia Athletics and Ted Lyons of the Chicago White Sox, and his great start this season promises to leave no question about the ranking.

Ferrell has served only two complete years in the majors, as compared to 8 years for Lyons and 6 years for Grove, and already has 117 victories. Grove is credited with 157 victories, including two scored this year, and Lyons, who has not started a game this season, has won 126 games.

Like most baseball idols Ferrell calls a small town his home. He comes from Guilford Court House, N. C., where his father operates a dairy farm, and he credits his finger strength gained from milking cows with making him a successful pitcher.

Found in Sticks

Bill Ray, Cleveland scout, found Ferrell in 1926 when he was pitching for the Oak Ridge, N. C. prep school nine. He offered Ferrell a contract after watching him in several games, but the youngster refused "because he didn't think he was good enough for the big leagues." But he promised Ray that he would not sign with any other scout. He signed a year later after playing semi-pro ball.

Since that first promise, Ferrell has kept many promises for the Indians. He promised to win enough games his first year to justify the scout's confidence. He was not given the opportunity, being farmed out to Terre Haute for the 1928 season, but came back in 1929 to win 21 games. He said that he would increase that total in 1930, and his record shows 25 victories.

This year he has promised to win 30 games—a feat which no pitcher has accomplished in recent years—and he is ready to win four games in five starts.

Modest and Confident

Ferrell is ambitious, modest and confident. He takes pride in his ability to do his best and embodies every trait of a sports idol. He neither smokes nor drinks, and leaves the girls alone, as far as it is possible for a handsome 23-year-old youth to do so. He sings, plays a banjo and attends movies when he is not retiring big league sluggers.

Yesterday's game saw Ferrell at his best. He mixed blinding speed and a dazzling curve with a change of pace and had excellent control. Only six runners reached first, three on errors and three on walks; and Dick Ferrell, St. Louis catcher and brother of the young pitcher, was the only man to get to second.

Not a single ball was hit hard and only two were knocked out of the infield, the other 25 putouts being made on easy pop-outs and slow rollers to the infielders. Eight batters were retired on strikes.

Ferrell also added the attack, hitting a home run and a double to drive in four runs.

BRAGGART ON BENCH

St. Louis, Apr. 30—(AP)—Dizzy Dean, the most publicized rookie since Art Shires, a fellow Texan, started telling the world of his greatness, has been a constant occupant of the Cardinal bench since the start of the baseball season, but Manager Gabby Street explained today Dizzy's inactivity was no reflection on his ability.

"He looks mighty good," Street said, "but my other pitchers have been doing so good I haven't had an opportunity to use him."

Asked if Dean, a tall right-hander, just past his 20th birthday, who won 26 games in the Western and Texas leagues last year, would remain with the Cardinals throughout the season, Street replied, "I couldn't say."

The Redbirds' skipper let it be known he was highly pleased with Dizzy's deportment of late. Gabby said Dizzy had been behaving "fine" since the close of the training trip when they found many things on which to disagree, one of them being the proper time for the juvenile pitcher to sleep.

Dean wanted to sleep during the hours the Cardinals were working out, whereas the manager insisted he should get his rest between sundown and sunup. Once it took Branch Ricker's best oratory to smooth things over and keep Dean in camp.

Street said he would stick with his "big five" of Grimes, Haines, Halahan, Rhem and Johnson for starting duty, but would give the other pitchers a chance if anything happened to his veteran stars.

Meanwhile, Dizzy, who modestly predicted during the spring he would win upwards of 20 games, continues to view the proceedings from a seat on the bench.

SUICIDE CLEARS UP MYSTERY OF MURDER OF GIRL

Suitor of Slain Connecticut
Miss Takes Life On
Eve Of Inquiry

By BOYD LEWIS
United Press Staff Correspondent

Hamden, Conn., Apr. 29.—(UP)—William Wetmore, a 25-year-old suitor—and kinsman by marriage—of the slain Emily Kirk, committed suicide with a shotgun and poison today as authorities planned again to question him regarding the girl's death.

When his body had been found in the underbrush behind the farm house in which he lived with his parents, authorities said they believed his death solved the slaying of the attractive girl whose body was found after a village school at the fire house Saturday night.

Emily, attractive daughter of a well-to-do family which dated back to the founding of the colonial community, was killed Saturday after she hurried gaily from the hall, where she had waited on table at a fire house social, to change her clothing for the later dancing. Her body subsequently was found in a thicket 1000 feet behind the fire house. She had been slugged with a bottle, assaulted, shot four times with a small bore pistol and her head crushed with a 50 pound rock.

Wetmore, the cousin of Miss Kirk's brother-in-law, Clement Wetmore, was summoned early by authorities who claimed they had learned he stood outside the fire house Saturday night, whistled for Emily and then took her away. He was released after questioning.

Yesterday county detectives again visited him and told him they would like him to appear today for further questioning.

"I will be there if I can find the way," he replied in a seemingly jocular mood.

When a telephone call to the New Haven county building notified county detectives of the suicide they jumped up, saying:

"That's the end. That finishes it."

Got Honorable Mention In Poem Contest Recently

By BILLY MALONEY

I was brought up out in Dixon,
Dixon out in Illinois.
Near the scenes where Old Chief Black Hawk used to roam,
But the years have changed the picture
And altho it's not the same,
It will always be my dear old prairie home.

Mother Nature has not altered
That old town I love so well,
Unchanged are all the hills so dear
to me;
But the modern wheels of progress
Have transformed that old home town,
Since I was a lad upon my mother's knee.

When I reached the peak of manhood,
Fate had beckoned unto me,
The cry of duty came to me from far away;
But my heart-strings were not severed
From that Dixon home of mine,
It holds charms for me I cherish
yet to-day.

It will always be the foremost
Beauty-spot on earth to me;
On the banks of old Rock River I love best,
And I see a perfect picture
As I sit and meditate,
Of my Dixon on the "Hudson of the West."

ILLCIT LOVE AFFAIR ENDS IN DOUBLE TRAGEDY

Chicago Hotel Was Scene Of Strange Marital Denouement

Chicago, April 30—(UP)—Rather than let his sweetheart leave him to return to her husband, J. H. Hartung of Dayton, Ohio, tricked her into taking "one last drink" before they parted, and a moment later both fell at the feet of the husband, who had just announced proudly that he had won back her love.

The other victim in what police said was one of the strangest marital tragedies on record here was Mrs. Kathleen Garrison, 38, wife of Ralph Garrison, a magazine circulator of Kalamazoo, Mich.

They died almost instantly of prussic acid which Hartung, a salesman, had poured into the liquor before he urged her to have "just one last drink" before they parted in the hotel apartment where they had lived as man and wife.

Letters left by Hartung indicated he had planned only to kill himself, but when Garrison and his wife, reconciled, called for her clothing he decided suddenly, it appeared, to kill them also as he offered drinks to both, but only Mrs. Garrison accepted.

Began Months Ago
The romance which led to the tragedy began several months ago, police learned from Garrison and from Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Jones, friends who came with Garrison from Kalamazoo to help influence Mrs. Garrison to give up Hartung, five years her junior.

Last March Garrison sent his wife to Miami, Fla., in the hope of breaking up the romance he knew was growing between her and Hartung.

In April, Mrs. Garrison, who formerly lived in Chicago and Cleveland, returned home, but she and Garrison quarreled again over Hartung and she left on April 18.

Garrison believed she would come to Chicago and asked several friends here to notify him should they see her.

Monday Mrs. Charles E. Foley called Garrison and told him she had heard from Mrs. Garrison, who was living with Hartung at the Bismarck hotel under the names of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Gerhardt.

Garrison hurried to Chicago and met his wife at the Foley home. After 30 minutes alone, they announced happily that they had become reconciled.

Mrs. Jones accompanied Garrison and Mrs. Garrison last night to the hotel to get Mrs. Garrison's clothes.

Greeted Pleasantly
Hartung extended a pleasant greeting when the trio entered his room. He made no comment when Garrison told proudly that Mrs. Garrison was going home again.

On a table were three points of gin and a whisky bottle, which contained the poison. Hartung had packed Mrs. Garrison's three suitcases, which were on a bed.

"Let us have one last drink," he pleaded for Mrs. Garrison. She was willing, but Garrison disapproved and refused to accept the drink that Hartung mixed.

Hartung raised his glass, waited a moment until Mrs. Garrison's touched her lips, then drank. A moment later he fell, crying "I'm dying; it was poison." Mrs. Garrison fell at his side, both at the feet of her husband.

In the room police found letters written by Mrs. Garrison to Hartung and others from him to her.

In one, she called him "the sweetest boy I've ever met."

One of Hartung's letters was addressed to "the one I love."

It said:
"Angel, I can't go on after having you and realizing that you are leaving me. It is too much for my poor brain. Why must a love like ours be separated? If it were only possible for me to have taken you away! Please understand that my love for you has become such a part of me that to be even away from you just drives me crazy."

"I would rather be dead than away from you. My love for you is deep. I want you to know that the last thought shall be of you. The last word shall be I have loved you. After all, darling, we must die, but to die for one you love is most pleasant, after all. May God bless you."

Silly Season Hits Capital; Arguments Rage

By HERBERT LITTLE
United Press Staff Correspondent
Washington, April 30—(UP)—The trees are taking on the green of spring, cardinals are whistling and mocking birds are mocking them. The silly season has arrived, and with it fiery debate among the heavy thinkers of Washington over two vital issues—

"Pajamas or nightshirts?"
"Shall women smoke?"

These are both fundamentally concerned with dignity, and according to eminent observers have historical significance, and in age rank along with the tariff and disarmament. President Taft wore a night-shirt, and Alice Roosevelt Longworth during his administration smoked cigarettes in public, and there was a tumult about it then, as now. Public health officials in convention assembled, are having words unofficially about night-shirts. Dr. James A. Hayne of South Carolina, is the leader of the night-shirt party. It is more dignified, says he, and besides, it uses a lot of cotton, produced in his own and other southern states. The Governor of South Carolina has approved his views.

Looking at the question from a less economic and more philosophical viewpoint, Dr. Hayne asserts that the idea of the pajama is imported, and may bring decadence of United States morals. Dr. Hayne said his view was opposed by Dr. H. H. Bigelow of Massachusetts.

The question of smoking by women was resurrected by Mrs. John B. Henderson, widow of Senator Henderson of Missouri and a dowager empress of Capital society, who contended tobacco is an enemy to beauty, a siren, and a poison. Mrs. Minnie Gerode Andrews, social leader of distinguished family, author and painter, retorted that tobacco has hurt women, who are more beautiful and healthier than ever, that it is an accessory to human intercourse, and offensive only to a few so pure that they want to make their neighbors as good as they are.

Publications of these conflicting views has brought an avalanche of letters to the newspapers. Duty to God, to the human race, and to herself, should cause women to forego tobacco, one said.

"A mere man" wrote in to say that neither debator made much of a case; why not debate whether men should wear rouge?

sweetheart, and give you love to carry on."

Police believed from this letter that Mrs. Garrison had communicated with Hartung Wednesday and that it was not news to him when Garrison told him last night "everything is settled now; Kathleen is going home with me."

They believed, too, that Hartung had planned only to kill himself and that the idea of killing Mrs. Garrison was well, and possibly her husband, when he saw his former sweetheart with her husband and knew instinctively from their actions that he really had lost her.

Stomach Ulcers Cause Life of Misery

Formerly Were Hard to Cure—
But Now You Have Only to Take ULCICUR

While Ulcers of the Stomach are today probably afflicting a greater number of people than ever before in history—owing to the changes in food habits and other environments of present day civilization—it is indeed fortunate that we have a remedy for Ulcers as dependable as ULCICUR. Not only will ULCICUR quickly remedy an ulcerated condition but it will also bring relief for almost any stomach disorder.

Mr. D. J. Eugene, of 1252 Thorndale Ave., Chicago, Illinois, reporting on the condition of his wife, says: "She was at the Lakeside Hospital, taken there after she had had 23 hemorrhages one day, brought on by stomach ulcers. Doctors said an operation was necessary. But she could take no nourishment to build up for an operation. Heard of ULCICUR and tried it. She is in better health today than ever before. Gained 35 pounds, and weighs more than in last ten years. Eats anything and everything with no ill effects. I owe you a lot."

ULCICUR is recognized as the treatment most in demand for stomach ailments. It is compounded by The ULCICUR Co., Inc., 2642 S. Michigan Ave., Chicago, Illinois, and nearly every drug store carries it in stock continually, making it easy for you to try a bottle. If for any reason your nearest druggist happens to be without it, ask him to get a bottle for you.

POET'S CORNER

THE HEART'S CONTRAST.

The sweet spring-time is coming
Once again;
On the flower-buds softly droppeth
Gentle rain;
Opening soon, each fairy blossom
Folded long on earth's cold bosom.
Wakes to bliss;
Breathing forth a fragrant blessing,
Answering to the wind's caressing
Balmly kiss.

Still the tiny fairy floweret
Lieth low,
That I placed on earth's cold bosom
'Neath the snow.
Then the wintry winds were sweeping
O'er the mound where he was sleeping;
Now the rain
Softly on the green grass falleth;
From the ground my flower-bud calleth
All in vain.

Myriad forms of life are waking
Everywhere,
And the song of birds outgushing
Charms the air.
But, alas! I'm watching nightly
For the form that glided lightly
O'er the floor.

What to me the wild-bird's singing?
I shall hear his sweet voice ringing
Nevermore.

THE CITY

By Mabel Nagel.
I have often sat and wondered
At home in my own little town,
About the busy city,
Where men win disgrace or renown.
And I thought there must be a vast difference,

Where so many people live,
And the city must be most desirous
As it has so much more to give.
And sometimes I read of its horrors,
And the crime in the blackness of night

And then again of its beauty
A great city of shining light
So I journeyed to the city
To have a chance to see.

If there were any difference
Between its people and you and me
Its buildings of course, are taller,
There's a greater hurrying throng.

But the people are just the same up there
As they are in my old home town.

And where some are cruel and grasping,
Others are good and kind,
And searching the city over,
This is what I find:

I find the same rain and sunshine,
I find the same sorrows and joys
I find the same men and women,
I find the same girls and boys.

The laughter and tears of babies,
The sound of many feet,
And the same lights and shadows,
Along the busy street.

The same lips have a smile or laughter,
The same eyes have a look of care
And all have their share of life's burdens,
Just the same up here as down there.

So it isn't the village or city
That makes us what we are
And that makes us follow a muddy path.

Or glance above to a star
But in a little village
Or the city's busy mart
The only thing that can happiness bring,

Is a kind contented heart.

THE SONG OF A BIRD IN THE NIGHT

By Mabel Nagel

I was going to the city
Leaving home and loved ones dear
And the night express
Was just three hours late

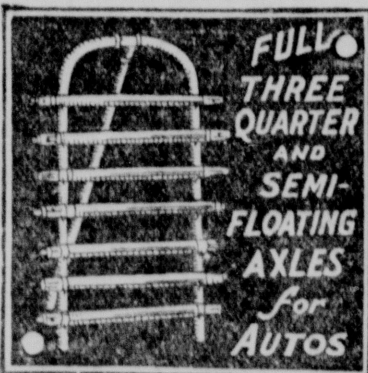

The day was dark and gloomy
And I shed a silent tear
As alone and sad.

I made the weary wait;
At last, the train came thundering in
Along the gleaming line

Then, gathering speed,
Sped on into the night.
The engineer was hurrying
To make up his lost time

As he scanned the rails
Like silver, in the light
I watched the darkening landscape
As we swiftly rushed along

My throbs upon the message I had heard

When suddenly, above the roar
I heard the sweetest song,
The joyous carol of a little bird.
In startled wonder,
I glanced above, and there,
Of all that he turned, The King.
A tiny, gold canary,
Contented, in his cage,
Was telling all the world
How he could sing.

As the train sped along,
The bird sang a song
A beautiful song of cheer
And it played a part
To an aching heart
And soothed a weary ear.
The blitting song.
As we rushed along
Helped me turn a cleaner page
And I learned to sing
About anything
From a little bird
In a cage.

Decrease In Crime Exception Murders

Washington, April 30—(AP)—A decrease in all classes of crime, save murder, was recorded for March as compared with February in a bulletin published by the Bureau of Investigation of the Justice Department.

The bulletin was released without change despite criticism of it by the Wickesham Commission in its report Monday on criminal statistics as containing "a number of weaknesses which should impose a more cautious promulgation" of the figures published by the bureau.

The total number of murders reported was 237.

Chicago with 30 murders and 14 cases of manslaughter by negligence topped the lists of reporting cities followed by Philadelphia with 11 murders and 30 cases of manslaughter by negligence.

The largest number of all classes of crime was reported from Los Angeles, with a total of 2,685. The nine other cities which reported more than 1,000 crimes during the month were Detroit, 2,067; Cleveland 1,626; San Francisco, 1,753; St. Louis, 1,462; Philadelphia, 1,275; Washington, 1,230; Newark, 1,174; Houston, 1,073 and Boston, 1,005. No totals were submitted either by New York or Chicago.

Henry Ford's Views On Wage Reductions

Detroit, Michigan, April 30 (UP)—General reduction in wages would set labor back 20 years, in the opinion of Henry Ford.

In an interview, Ford stated there would be no deflation of labor by the Ford Motor Company, nor is it likely any of the 3,500 companies which supply the Ford Company with materials will reduce wages, the interview, printed by the Wall Street Journal, stated.

Ford explained that it was his theory that the high quality of workmanship demanded in his plant could not be provided by inferior workmen, or by inefficient or dissatisfied men. For that reason he "absolutely refuses to consider" or condone wage reductions.

He believe if the general wage level of wages were reduced it would take labor 20 years to get back.

The present Ford wage scale averages just a little more than a dollar an hour.

'EGYPTIANS' ARE TOLD OF DIXON'S BIG CENTENNIAL

St. Petersburg Observer Tells of Harris' Speech There

The St. Petersburg Observer of last Friday had the following concerning an address given there by Atty. A. G. Harris of this city:

The Rotary Club had the pleasure Tuesday evening of having as guest speaker, Attorney A. G. Harris, of Dixon. Mr. Harris spoke on Lincoln, and told his hearers at the beginning that he would probably tell them nothing that they had not heard, but might tell the old facts in a new way. And he did. He spoke of Lincoln and Ann Rutledge; of Old Salem State Park and what it means to people who live away from Petersburg, and told of what was done at Dixon last year when a Lincoln statue, an airport and a bridge were dedicated during a four-day celebration that was attended by thousands.

Mr. Harris told of his first knowledge of Petersburg, back a number of years ago when he was admitted to the bar and the late N. W. Branson of this city was the secretary of the examining board. Then he told of his first visit here last year, and of the impression that was made upon his mind by the Park and by Ann Rutledge's grave. He told also of how he happened to come to Petersburg to speak. Several weeks ago he was invited to speak before a club in his home city, and wrote Mayor Johnson a letter, asking for any information that he might be able to give him regarding the State Park and Lincoln's life here. Mayor Johnson answered the letter, sent him the information and asked him to stop the first Tuesday he was in this vicinity, and address the Rotary Club.

It just happened that M. Harris was going to Springfield Tuesday, and when his plans were made, he wrote Mayor Johnson stating that he would be near Petersburg and would be glad to come here, if the invitation still stood. Naturally, the Mayor informed him that it did and he came.

Mr. Harris is deeply interested in everything pertaining to the life of Lincoln, and in a matter-of-fact way without oratory of flourish, he told his hearers of some of the things that he believes are important in that connection. In closing he expressed the wish that this community might stage a celebration in commemoration of the centennial of Lincoln's coming here, similar to that staged at Dixon last year.

Horn, state organizer and field man. These men gave lengthy and interesting talks upon the growth of the lodge as well as all the benefits derived therefrom in the way of insurance and social welfare. The officers of the local court were also called upon to give short talks and musical numbers were well rendered by the court's male quartet with Miss Thais Meyer assisting at the piano.

The history of the court dates back to December 17, 1902, when the chapter was granted, and consisted of fifteen members as follows: H. F. Holdren, vice chief ranger, Edward Henry, past chief ranger, M. J. Bieschke, recording secretary, F. D. Gehant, financial secretary, J. G. Conshack, conductor, N. J. Bieschke, sentinel, and F. W. Miller, Modest Gehant, Mathias Haub, Frank L. Oester and Henry Auchstetter. Seven of these charter members are still on the roster today, and the membership has grown to one hundred forty-eight members.

They now own their own club room fully equipped, and plans are now under way to install a three-alley bowling alley adjoining the present building. The growth of the order reflects upon the efficiency and hard work of these officers in the past and at present, and truly they are to be congratulated.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION

A brief comparison of present compensation, and the proposed law, designated as H. B. 660.

Under the proposed law would increase the cost of compensation over the present law, as nearly as can be computed about 83 per cent. This cost to be borne by whom?

Is the wage rate to be reduced to even production costs? Is the manufacturer of other employer of labor under the present keen competitive conditions, with many ceasing operations because their industry cannot be made to produce dividends, but in many cases, leaves them in the red, or is an attempt to pass the increased cost of production to be passed on to the consumer, and who is the consumer?

Is it the farmer whose present condition is just as nearly desperate as is possible to imagine.

Is it to be passed to the working man himself, when unemployment, is the greatest problem confronting the nation and in fact, the whole world.

Who can be expected to carry the additional burden. Certainly the Liability Ins. Co's. will write the business with its increased costs without an increased raise in rates. Are we going to wave our hands and gather from the air this necessary fund.

There is going to be the necessity of a strict physical examination of the applicant for a job. The history or experience of the applicant must of necessity go into as to previous injuries and compensation. The danger of substituting compensation for wage earnings is a thing to be very seriously considered. If as is possible by some of the proposed amendments, for an employee to secure for himself a larger income through workmen's compensation than by his labor, is it not possible to conceive of the temptations of dishonesty, and making of him or her a recipient of unearned insurance payments, thus instituting a dole to all intents and purposes.

The effect on the man or woman employee who has passed the age of forty-five years is very likely to be disastrous, as only agile, keen-eyed and younger are going to be given the preference when help is being taken on. The penalty of age will be imposed for the survival of the industry under the present depression and throat-cutting and cost-cutting competition in almost every kind of business.

Industrial disease has been inserted in the proposed measure, instead of occupational disease, and who is able to determine whether unsanitary conditions in the home, or whether reckless lack of care in protection of ones self may not have produced, as an instance, tuberculosis or other maybe fatal consequences. The proposed law makes it plain that the employee who may be selected out of maybe quite a number in a limited space of time is the "fall guy" in case of any one of a great number of "industrial diseases," so called.

Then the section relating to disfigurement have no longer reference to face, head and hands, but may include any kind of scar on any part of the body. All kinds of compensation rates have been raised, ie, death, permanent injury, temporary injury, and so called "industrial disease," so that under the proposed bill, Illinois will be blessed or cursed with the most drastic far-reaching compensation laws in the United States, and in this time of depression in business when worthy and honest working people are enduring the most discouraging and difficult experiences within the memory of most of us.

Do we want to encourage malingering and the institution of the dole in the United States? I think not.

Do we want to drive industry from Illinois, to Indiana, Michigan or some other state by such drastic measures? Do we want our citizenship to become so dependent upon disguised charity, that their American Pride will be lost to them forever?

In conclusion, it is admitted by our legislators that this measure that will either be enacted into a law or be defeated in this session of the Legislature, is the most important legislation before the present session.

The Judiciary Committee composed of fifty-seven members of the lower house, includes two of the representatives from this 35th district, John P. Devine and Dennis J. Collins. Mr. Devine is one of the ablest and most experienced legislators in the Assembly. He is granted and entitled to the greatest respect by his fellow members.

Mr. Collins is a fine, courteous, gentleman, acquiring and profiting by his associates. His value to our district will increase with years of service.

This bill has been placed in a subcommittee of five members to be reported back to the entire Judiciary Committee on Tuesday, May 12th.

If you believe in our traditional "American Spirit."

If we want to be independent and fair dealing, self respecting in this land of opportunity, lend your influence toward the defeat of this unfair and destructive piece of legislation.

A Reader.

Weekly Report On State Crops Out

Springfield, Ill., April 29—(AP)—Oats show a good stand, winter wheat is excellent, but last week proved too cold and wet for much corn planting, the weekly synopsis of weather and crop conditions, issued by the U. S. Weather Bureau here, said today.

Covering the week ending yesterday, the report was as follows:

"Rainfall was light in the northern division but there was ample moisture remaining from the previous week. In the central and south there was considerable duration, with totals ranging from 0.24 inch at Peoria to 1.41 inches at Cairo.

Moisture is now penetrating the subsoil. The week was cool, with frosts. There are a few scattered reports of damage to garden truck fruit was in full bloom in the central counties but in the extreme north much of it was only budded. No positive reports of damage to fruit have been received. The lowest temperature was 26 degrees at Rockford. It was too cold and wet for much corn planting. The progress and condition of winter wheat are excellent, but it is becoming too rank in parts of the south. Oats, meadows, and pastures have been improved by rains; they would advance faster with warmer weather to show a good stand."

BUSINESS FINDS ITSELF DIVIDED OVER INSURANCE

Many Leaders Attending
C. C. Convinion Oppose Such Plan

BY THOMAS L. STOKES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Atlantic City, April 30—(UP)—American business, as represented in the U. S. Chamber of Commerce convention here, found itself sharply divided today over unemployment insurance—most widely advocated remedy for the ills of depression.

Some industrial leaders were outspokenly hostile and most advocates only lukewarm.

But frankly facing adoption of such a system by a number of states, the most radical form of state compulsory insurance, most business men here seem to realize the necessity of meeting this movement. Consequently, a variety of plans for working out relief measures within the industry have been brought forward, some of them already in successful operation.

Accepting the unemployment problem as the chief concern of the annual meeting, the business leaders continued today to offer and inspect carefully numerous alternatives, which resolve themselves into these plans:

Proposed Plans
Shorter working days and week, with retirement at an earlier age on pension to make way for younger men.

Establishment of a reserve fund for benefits to unemployed for a certain period, such as the Rochester plan which goes into effect in 1933, a modified employment insurance scheme.

Stabilization of production such as successfully achieved by the Proctor & Gamble Co., soap manufacturers.

Creating of planning boards for each industry to control production according to consumptive demand.

Budgetary control through industrial units, by trade associations, and even on a national scale.

Occupational education of labor to train for new jobs when introduction of new machines displace workers.

The variety of such plans and the general sympathy they have aroused here indicate that industries may be expected gradually to evolve some such plans according to the individual needs of the particular industry.

The wide divergence of opinion here is indicated in the flat opposition of such men as Rome C. Stephenson, president of the American Bankers Association, and the warning of Edward A. Filene, Boston Merchant, representative of the liberal group here, that twenty states legislatures have pending before them state compulsory insurance proposals.

Filene said he originally opposed state compulsory insurance, but added he had little hope industry would provide its own. He suggested a compromise optional proposal whereby the state would enforce compulsory insurance on industries which refuse to adopt the plan.

The anti-trust laws are linked with the problem of controlling production.

ADMINISTRATOR'S NOTICE.

particularly of natural resources, such as coal and oil, and for that reason proposals to revise the laws have occupied a prominent place here.

Oppose Raskob Scheme
The first opposition was voiced today to the proposal previously urged here and advocated also by Chairman John J. Raskob, of the Democratic National Committee, that the Federal Trade Commission be authorized to approve mergers in advance.

G. Carroll Todd, former assistant to the Attorney General, said such a plan would only add to bureaucracy and would not be feasible because of the danger that plans of the proposed merger might be changed after approval and prosecution then be necessary.

Todd offered a plan for legalizing agreements to control production of natural resources when found necessary by suggesting that a Federal agency be authorized to pass upon such agreements and supervise their operation until the emergency had passed.

William S. Bennett, vice president of the Edward Hines Lumber Company, Chicago, recommended that violations of the anti-trust laws be made a civil instead of a criminal offense, which he argued would remove occasional injustices when indictments were found unwarranted and also would relieve the Attorney-General of hesitancy in prosecuting.

Todd and Bennett shared the platform at the morning session today with Fred W. Sargent, president, Chicago & North Western Railway Company, Chicago, who argued against government interference with business and brought in the water-power issue for the first time with a demand that the government leave such development to private industry.

There is considerable discussion under the surface here of the wage reduction controversy, but thus far it has been kept out of the public meetings.

Installment selling, which was severely criticized in an address last night by Rome C. Stephenson, president of the American Bankers Association, was defended today by Edward C. Vogel, chairman of the Investment Committee of the Commercial Investment Corporation. He said installment selling was sound, denied it had any part in bringing on the depression and cited figures designed to show that it has continued during the depression on about the same scale as heretofore. The percentage of new automobiles sold on the installment plan during 1930, he said, was 62.3 per cent, which compared with 58.1 per cent in 1928 and 62.6 per cent in 1929.

HOW AIR CORPS WOULD DEFEND U. S. IN WAR TIME

Big Show In New York
For Purpose Of Solving Its Problems

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

Washington—If you happen to see those 672 military airplanes which the Army Air Corps will fly in mass formation during its May maneuvers, remember that while the Army is trying to put on a good show for the country, it is also seeking to work out problems the answer to which would be vitally necessary to know in time of war.

The Army is charged with coast defense and the first line of the coast defense which would meet an enemy attacker would be the Air Corps. It is conceivable, consequently, that in actual warfare the Air Corps would be rushing the bulk of its strength to the Eastern Seaboard as it is now about to do.

Many Problems
The problem of operating such an unprecedentedly large concentration of aircraft presents problems of many varieties. In the past the Air Corps has not attempted to handle half as many planes in one movement at the same time.

Already much light has been shed on the corps' ability to park its planes in strategic spots in case of emergency. The 672 planes are scheduled for movements to New York, Boston and Washington. In preparing for overnight layovers the Air Corps has found that airport and field facilities are far from adequate in the Boston and Washington areas. A large proportion of the participating planes must be assigned to fields well removed from these cities—much too far, in the judgement of Air Corps strategists.

The problem of supply, as the vast armada converges from all parts of the country and concentrates at Wright Field, O., and points East, is unromantic but obviously of tremendous import.

Supply Is Big Task
After the forthcoming maneuvers, the Air Corps will know approximately what provisions are must make in order to be prepared for any wartime movement, sudden or otherwise. For months the Army has been working on the problems of supplying 672 planes en route and during the maneuvers. Gas, oil and spare parts are the main component parts of supply stores.

Problems of communications between planes will also be worked out, as well as questions concerning the adequacy of existing staffs.

Thus it will be seen that virtually all the more important issues involved in the maneuvers from tactical and strategic standpoints arise from the fact that so many planes are involved in these annual maneuvers that ever before.

In 1929 the Air Corps simulated aerial warfare for two weeks, dividing into two forces, one of which had a preponderance of pursuit planes and the other a preponderance of bombers and attack planes, in an effort to determine the relative combat values of the various types.

Ground troops operated in conjunction with the air forces as if

The Husband Hunter, etc.

SHE bit her lip, thought a moment, then looked worriedly at the wristwatch her gang had presented to her the Christmas before. It was big and clumsy, but it was dear to her heart, and it kept fairly accurate time—she "set it two days ahead," as she had once told Tommy.

"Well, kids," she said, "I guess we'd better take him back and let him keep his rendezvous."

"Gee no, Miss Beryl," the boy called Pigmy protested. "Let's take it away from him. I want one of those things for my dog Snooks."

"You guessed it," Beryl informed him. "It's a chain all right, only in this case there's a ball attached to it. And it's sure going to give you a pain in the leg, Tommy boy, she added to their captive."

"Well, it's my . . ."

"Yes, I know; it's your leg and it's your funeral. And we're going to take you to it. I'm thoroughly disgusted with you."

"Regusted, you mean, Miss Beryl?"

"Thanks, Mike, that's right—regusted. Hang on everybody. Over she goes!"

With a clatter and a bang Beryl turned the old car about much as she would the old boat she had traded for it.

"The night air is bad for our watersprite," she remarked as the car wheezed and stuttered when she gave it gas for first speed.

"What'd you call it that for?" one of the youngsters wanted to know. "Because it's not a boat, honey." Beryl answered sweetly. "Now do you understand?"

"Yep," he said. "That's why I call my dog Rover; he never stays home."

"That's right, Buddy," Tommy encouraged. "Don't you let her make a fool out of you."

"Aw, you shut up. You don't count—you're going to get married—and my dad says that's the end of a man."

"Ah, a little group of sophsistates," Tommy murmured awfully. "Your father didn't mean that, Angie." Beryl said gently. "He loves to joke. Everyone knows it's fine to marry the right person. And your mother is awfully sweet."

"Yep, I guess she is," Angie admitted. "She likes you too, Miss Beryl. I heard her say that if it wasn't for your family . . ."

"Perhaps you heard her say that in confidence," Beryl hastily interrupted. "I don't think I'd repeat it, Angie."

It would be just like Tommy, she thought, to imagine she had coached Angie.

"Oh, all right," Angie subsided.

Beryl fell silent and so did Tommy. The children, too, were quieter than usual, depressed by a sense of failure. Their leader had not told them what this kidnapping was for, but her conversation with Tommy had enlightened them somewhat. It was plain that she had wanted to stop him from running away with her sister, and now she was going to let him do it.

Pigmy especially was downcast. He liked Tommy, but Irene was anathema to him. Ever since she had intercepted and read his much public plea, one of his love notes to Agnes, of their neighborhood, he had "hated the ground she walked on."

Beryl's voice cheered them a bit, however, when they heard her home and she said briskly: "Well, here we are, men. Bring forth the captive and escort him to yon fair damsel who waits with trembling heart and suitcase packed (some of

in wartime. Umpires flew with each squadron to judge the success of bombing raids, observation penetrations, attempt of pursuit planes to clear the skies and so on.

The duration of those maneuvers taught the crews, air and ground, what might be expected from the several types of military aircraft when out in the open for a protracted period away from the shelter and comfortable facilities of the home hangers.

Last year Air Corps units concentrated at Sacramento and for a month bombardment, pursuit, and attacking groups—which train and are quartered separately—practiced together in co-operation while the staff officers worked out theories of combined action.

Anthropologists Discover
Primitive Tribes Have

Chicago—(UP)—War among the primitive African tribes is not the serious business that it is among civilized nations. It would correspond to American athletic contests, according to two University of Chicago anthropologists recently returned after living a year in Niamlia, Liberia.

The men are Dr. George Herzog, research associate, and Charles G. Bloch, son of a Djabo, chieftain, who ran away from his home 20 years ago and came to America to achieve a degree at the University.

my things, too)."

The car came to a noisy stop. "I guess she wouldn't talk like that if all was lost," one of the band whispered to another, as they hauled Tommy out and gave him a push that sent him stumbling across the sidewalk.

"Gently, gently," cautioned Beryl. "Wouldn't damage the bridegroom and send him frowzy to his doom?"

The boys desisted from further violence upon the person of the belated bridegroom and turned to Beryl. "Is that all?" they chorused.

"That's all, my lads. Your reward will be forthcoming on the morrow. Picnic rations for all hands round and the end of the island if old Wind-in-the-Face can make it. Bathing suits and iodine. And sound the tocsin at daybreak. Away with you now. Early to bed or we won't get back tomorrow night."

They scampered off, calling back good-night. Beryl watched them go with a look of pride. Noble little rascals—her gang. It was not their fault if she had failed. But had she?

She did not drive on at once to the ramshackle garage the boys had built for her in the backyard—a garage just big enough for the old car to hop into. She sat, instead, behind the wheel and watched her stepfather's house. A half mile of satisfaction curved her lips—beautifully modeled lips, but much larger than Irene's rosebud mouth.

Beryl's voice cheered them a bit, however, when they heard her home and she said briskly: "Well, here we are, men. Bring forth the captive and escort him to yon fair damsel who waits with trembling heart and suitcase packed (some of

THE shades of the house were down. They usually were down at night. Beryl liked it so, and Mrs. Everett insisted upon it. The family life, she said, was not to be put on exhibition. Beryl had remarked that it couldn't afford to be one of her half-on-the-edge states that always so irritated her mother and Irene. They preferred to call things by euphemisms.

What was transpiring behind the shades now Beryl thought she could guess. Irene's pulse must have been shaken to its foundation, for

ORGANIZATION TO SAVE HIGHWAYS OF STATE IS FORMED

Its Object Is To Protect
Motorists From Big
Buses And Trucks

Springfield, Ill., Apr. 30.—(UP)—Declaring its object to be that of saving the state highways to the average motorist and of placing bus and truck competition on a par with railroads the Illinois Taxpayers' Association was formed here today.

According to Ewing the association will sponsor legislation similar to laws said to be in force in other states and which place commercial passenger bus and truck lines on a par with railroads.

These laws, Ewing said, include the establishment of uniform rates, the placing of "adequate taxes" to pay for road "destruction" and rigid requirements as to length, width, height and weight of buses and trucks.

Included in the association's program is a campaign for wider roads, intersection safety lights, road markers and extension of the hard roads and secondary highway system for the benefit of agricultural districts into every section of the state.

Ewing declared that the association already has a membership of 16,000 and that it is the forerunner of the formation of associations in other states.

Individuals Crowded Off
"At the rate the number of trucks and buses is increasing, the individual motorist is being literally crowded from the highways," said Ewing. "The average driver not only finds it inconvenient, but actually dangerous to proceed upon the simplest journey with his family."

"During the past ten years the number of buses has increased from 70,000 in 1920 to over 100,000 to date, while for the same period, the number of trucks has mounted from 1,000,820 to about 4,000,000 at present. This represents an increase of about 400 per cent."

"Buses and trucks make free and ever-increasing use of the highways which their movements are pounding to pieces long before the bond issues which provided the money for building them have expired, while other industries against which they are directly, or indirectly competing, must help to build and maintain these subsidizing rights-of-way for the benefit of their rivals."

"The railroads, for example, are not only compelled to help maintain the highways, but in addition must also maintain their own rights-of-way, construct bridges, elevate tracks and erect costly, and in some instances, monumental passenger terminals besides contributing heavily to the school and other taxing districts through which they operate."

Use Streets As Terminals
"In most instances, the buses and trucks use the public streets as terminals and many of them bury their fuel in other states, thus escaping the Illinois gas tax. Something must be done and at once to prevent the total demolition of our hard road system into a vast network of ruins by these organized freight and passenger carriers whose destructive movements over the highways is costing the taxpayers of the state more than $10,000,000 a year for repairs alone."

The association, he said, has the backing of many community organizations, business and civic associations, industrial leaders and safety clubs, desirous of reducing the present driving hazards of overcrowded highways. Among the endorers are representatives of some of the state's basic industries which have suffered as a result of unregulated competition by the buses and trucks.

Directors of the association are as follows:

Overthrow China's Dictator Sought

Shanghai, China, Apr. 29.—(UP)—Open revolt against the "personal dictatorship" of General Chiang Kai Shek at last has broken out in China after months of subterranean rumblings.

Powerful political figures, supported by military chiefs throughout the land, have joined in an attempt to overthrow Chiang by bloodless means if possible, but by fighting if necessary.

Although Hu Han-min, deposed chairman of the legislative Yuan and one of the leading figures on the country, remains a prisoner in Nanjing, where he has been kept for many weeks since he came to open disagreement with policies of Chiang, his supporters in Kwangtung and other southern provinces have proclaimed rebellion and published a manifesto embodying their demands. Runs have started at branches of the Central Bank of China in Canton. The bank is under control of T. V. Soong, Finance Minister of the national government.

Slayer Of British Woman Is Captured

London, Apr. 29.—(AP)—John Harrity, 55-year-old farmer charged with the murder of Annie Timney, 36, was lodged in a prison cell today to await trial after a bitter but futile fight to escape capture.

Harrity, who is a noted sporting shot, embarked with a shotgun in a rowboat in the Lough Swilly, Donegal county, yesterday, and for six hours held a large force of pursuers at bay until his boat was shot to pieces and sank.

A Rathmullan dispatch to the Daily Express said that when four civic guards rowed after him he kept up a fire until all four were wounded. Meanwhile people ashore phoned to the Buncrana barracks a few miles distant, for soldiers, and a strong force hastened to the scene.
